Marital Status and Living Arrangements: March 1984

INTRODUCTION

This report presents detailed information on the marital status and living arrangements of the noninstitutional population of the United States, based on the March 1984 Current Population Survey. The text of this report compares current survey data with data collected from earlier surveys. In some instances, data from decennial censuses are used when survey data are not available. Changes can be seen in areas such as the median age of men and women at first marriage, the ratio of divorced persons to persons in intact marriages (i.e., divorce ratio), the living arrangements of children under 18 years as related to the marital status of their parents, the living arrangements of adult sons and daughters, and the number of unmarried-couple households. Highlights of these changes include:

- The estimated median age at first marriage for women is 23, its highest level since 1890.
- The proportions never-married have approximately doubled since 1970 for men and women in their late twenties and early thirties.
- The divorce ratio has risen from 47 to 121 divorced persons per 1,000 married persons with spouse present between 1970 and 1984.

- The number of children living in a one-parent situation has increased by nearly 6 million since 1970.
- Sixty-two percent of all men and 47 percent of all women age 18 to 24 live in households maintained by their parent(s).
- Unmarried-couples numbered 1,988,000 in 1984—nearly triple the number in 1970.

POSTPONEMENT OF MARRIAGE

Estimates of the median age of persons marrying for the first time are presented in table A. In 1984, the median age was 25.4 years for men and 23.0 years for women. The median age for women is at the highest level since 1890 (the first year for which data are available), and that for men is nearing the high estimated for the turn of the century. The long-term decline after 1890 in the median age at first marriage continued until 1956 when the medians reached 22.5 years for men and 20.1 years for women. In the early 1960's, the median age began to increase slowly. Between 1960 and 1976, the median had risen by one full year for both men and women. However, during the 8 years that followed, the median rose by 1.7 years for women and 1.6 years for men.

The trend toward the postponement of marriage also is apparent in the sizable increases that have occurred in the proportion of men and women under 35 years old who have never married (table B). The proportion never married for the age groups 25 to 29 and 30 to 34, in particular, have approximately doubled since 1970. The increase in the proportion never married for both men and women in their early twenties rose by about 20 percentage points, from 36 to 57 percent for women and from 55 to 75 percent for men. The proportion never married for women aged 25 to 29 years rose from 11 percent to 26 percent and from 19 percent to 38 percent for men of comparable age. The proportion never married for persons in their early thirties rose from 6 percent to 13 percent for women and from 9 to 21 percent for men.

DIVORCE

Divorced persons represented 9 percent of the population ever married in 1984, compared with 4 percent in 1970 and 3 percent in 1960. These proportions are based on the marital status of persons at the time the survey was conducted and do not reflect divorce experience if a person has remarried.

Table C and figure 1 present divorce ratios that measure the number of currently divorced persons per 1,000 currently married persons who live with their spouses. In 1984, the divorce ratio was 121, more than twice the figure of 47 for 1970.

Between 1960 and 1970, the divorce ratio increased by an annual average of 1.2 (from 35 in 1960 to 47 in 1970). During the 1970's, the average annual increase rose to 5.3

(from 47 in 1970 to 100 in 1980), but since 1980, the average annual increase has remained constant with an increase of 5.3 per year.

The average annual increase in the divorce ratio differs by race and Spanish origin. Blacks have the highest divorce ratio (240 per 1,000 in 1984), but the rate of increase has slowed in recent years. During the 1970's, the divorce ratio of Blacks increased by an average of 12 per year, but the increase has slowed to 9.3 per year since 1980. The rate of increase for Whites, however, has accelerated slightly since 1980, from an average of 4.8 per year during the 1970's to 5.3 per year since 1980. For persons of Spanish origin, the average annual increase since 1980 in the divorce ratio has remained the same as the increase during the 1970's (3.5 and 3.7, respectively).

CHILDREN UNDER 18 YEARS

The decline in annual births starting in the early 1960's and the continued low number of annual births in the 1970's and the early 1980's has resulted in a decline in the population under 18 years old. In 1984, there were 7 million fewer children under 18 than in 1970. However, during the same period the number who lived with only one parent actually rose by nearly 6 million, and the number who lived with two parents dropped by 12 million (table D).

In 1984, 75 percent of all children under 18 years old lived with two parents, while 23 percent lived with one parent, ¹Persons of Spanish origin may be of any race.²See section on "Procedural Change for 1982 and 1983."

The living arrangements of children as related to the marital status of the parent differed by race and Spanish origin. Over one-half of all Black children lived with only one parent, compared with one-sixth of all White children. Among children of Spanish origin, 1 of every 4 lived with one parent. Black children in a one-parent situation were most likely to be living with a parent who had never married. White children were most likely to be living with a divorced parent, and children of Spanish origin were about equally likely to be living with a divorced parent or a married parent whose spouse was absent.

A new table (table 9) has been added this year to the detailed section of the report. This table uses children as the unit of analysis and provides a demographic and economic view of the conditions under which children live by the age, sex, and race of the child. The number of children by the marital status of the parent is presented by number of siblings in the household; age, education, and employment status of the parent; presence of other adults; family income; area of residence; and tenure. (Table E contains highlights of the information in table 9.)

The new data provide the basis for comparing the living circumstances of children who live with both parents, children who live with their mother but not their father, and children who live with their father but not their mother. For example, among children who live with their mother as compared with their father or both parents, the mothers tend to be younger, less educated, unemployed or not in the labor force, have lower family income, live in a central city, and rent their living quarters. Children who live with one parent are more likely than children who live with both parents to have another adult in addition to the parent present in the household. Among children who lived with both parents, one-fourth had a parent with 4 or more years of college, compared with only 6 percent who lived with mother only, and 15 percent who lived with father only. The mean family income, as shown in table 9, is $30,615 for children living with both parents, $9,930

YOUNG ADULTS

Young adults (defined here as persons 18 to 34 years old) in 1984 were less likely than young adults in 1970 to be maintaining homes of their own and were more likely to be living in the homes of their parents. Most of this change in living arrangements has occurred since 1980.

The proportion of men and women 18 to 24 years old who maintained their own homes as householders or spouses of householders dropped from 35 to 25 percent for men and from 49 to 40 percent for women between 1970 and 1984. The decline thus far during the 1980's has already been as large as that during the entire decade of the 1970's. Corresponding increases occurred in the proportion of persons 18 to 24 years old who never left or who returned to the homes of their parents. The proportion who were living with their parents rose from 54 to 62 percent for men and from 41 to 47 percent for women between 1970 and 1984; most of these increases occurred after 1980.

Young adults 25 to 34 years old have shown similar patterns of change in living arrangements. In this age group the change has been greater for men than for women. The proportion who were householders or the spouses of householders declined from 86 percent in 1970 to 77 percent in 1984 for men and from 90 percent to 86 percent for women. While the proportion of men living at home with their parents increased from 10 percent to 13 percent between 1970 and 1984, the proportion of women in that situation declined slightly during the 1970's from 7 to 5 percent and then rose to 8 percent by 1984.

The vast majority of young adults who lived with their parents were not living as a subfamily (i.e., they had no spouse or child of their own living with them). Men are more likely to live with their parents than are women, probably because men generally marry at later ages than women. A number of factors may be contributing to the change in the living arrangements of young men and women, including the postponement of marriage, rise in divorce, emphasis on advanced education, employment problems, and high housing costs.

The 1970 census data presented in table F of this report have been adjusted to eliminate incomparabilities with the Current Population Survey (CPS) data for 1980 and 1984. In the CPS, unmarried college students in dormitories who would otherwise be living at home are counted as members of their parents' household. In the decennial census, college students in dormitories are counted as living in the dormitory. For the purpose of this report, the estimates for 1970 for "child of householder" and "child of householder, not in a subfamily" include the counts of unmarried college students living in dormitories. Students reclassified by this procedure number 847,000 men and 849,000 women 18 to 24 years, and 21,000 men and 7,000 women 25 to 34 years.

UNMARRIED COUPLES

The number of unmarried-couple households has been growing by an average of 105,000 per year since 1970. In March 1984, the number of unmarried-couple households reached 1,988,000. By Census Bureau definition, these households consist of two unrelated adults of the opposite sex, with or without children under 15 years old living in the household. About 70 percent of the unmarried-couple households in 1984 had no children under 15 present. No questions are asked regarding the nature of the relationship, so the situations may range from cohabitation prior to or instead of marriage to situations without cohabitation (e.g., a male college student who rents a room in the home of an elderly widow, or an elderly man with a female live-in housekeeper or nurse).

Several demographic changes occurred in unmarried-couple households between 1970 and 1984. The householder in unmarried-couple households was more likely to be male (61 percent) than female (39 percent) in 1984, unlike the situation in 1970 when half of the householders (49 percent) were females. Another change concerns the age of the householder and suggests that much of the recent growth in unmarried-couple households has been among young adults. In households with no children present, the majority of householders (73 percent) were 45 years or older in 1970, but by 1984, the majority (78 percent) were less than 45 years old. In fact, in 3 out of 5 unmarried couples in 1984, both partners were less than 35 years of age.

Table 7 presents the age and marital status of both partners in all unmarried-couple households. The age distribution of all partners shows that 70 percent were less than 35 years old, 15 percent were 35 to 44 years old, 11 percent were 45 to 54 years old, and 5 percent were 65 years or older. The distribution by marital status shows that 53 percent were never married, 33 percent were divorced, 6 percent were widowed, and 8 percent were currently married but separated from their spouse or their spouse was absent for another reason.

PROCEDURAL CHANGE FOR 1982 and 1983

Until 1982, Census Bureau estimates of the number of subfamilies were made on the basis of a clerical coding procedure using questionnaire entries on relationship, marital status, age, and sex. In order to improve efficiency and accuracy, several steps were taken to change the procedures.

The goal of redesigning the data collection and processing schemes for living arrangements was to permit a more definitive identification of certain analytically important subgroups within households that earlier strategies often missed—principal among these groups is the mother-child subfamily. The improvements introduced appear to have accomplished the aim of more completely matching mothers with their children and vice versa, but they also have caused a break in the data series for subfamilies and for living arrangements of children. The introduction of the changes took place over a 2-year period, 1982 and 1983. The first phase involved asking new questions of every household to gather additional information about each person's parent and spouse. This information was used in 1982 to clerically identify subgroups within households. In 1983, an automated coding scheme to identify subgroups was introduced as the final step in implementing this series of changes.

Table H shows data on subfamilies and on living arrangements of children for the years 1980 through 1984. Estimates for 1982, the year that the new procedures were partially implemented, indicate an increase of about 600,000 subfamilies, compared with the 1981 estimate. The subfamily estimates for 1983, the first year that the new procedures were fully implemented, shows an increase of about 400,000, compared with the 1982 estimate. Thus, the subfamily estimate increased by about 1 million or by more than 60 percent between the last year (1981) that the old procedures were used and the first year (1983) that the new procedures were fully implemented. It is impossible to tell with precision how much of the 1 million increase was solely due to procedural changes. However, based on the annual changes prior to and subsequent to the introduction of the new procedures, a net change in the number of subfamilies of 100,000 to 200,000 between 1981 and 1983 might have been expected had there been no operational changes. By extension, one may assume that at least 80 percent of the changes in the estimates of the major analytic group affected (e.g., increases in the mother-child subfamilies, increases in the number of

RELATED REPORTS

Data for 1984, together with historical data back to 1947, on households and families by type were published in Series P-20, No. 391, Households, Families, Marital Status, and Living Arrangements: March 1984 (Advance Report). Detailed statistics on household type and composition for 1984 were presented in Series P-20, No. 398, Household and Family Characteristics: March 1984. Projections for the United States of the number of households and families from 1979 to 1995 were last published in Series P-25, No. 805. Additional statistics for years since 1947 on subjects covered in this report have been published by the Bureau of the Census in other reports in Series P-20, P-23, and P-25 and are listed at the end of this publication.

Statistics on marital status, living arrangements, and related subjects for specific standard metropolitan statistical areas, counties, urbanized areas, cities, states, regions, and the United States are available from the 1980 Census of Population. The data are presented in Volume 1, Characteristics of the Population, Chapters B, C, and D.

Appendix A. Definitions and Explanations

Coverage. The population in this report includes the civilian noninstitutional population of the United States plus approximately 879,000 members of the Armed Forces in the United States living off post or with their families on post in 1984 but excludes all other members of the Armed Forces. However, the data in table A on median age at first marriage for men refer to the total male population which includes, in addition to the above, the male members of the Armed Forces overseas and in military barracks and similar quarters in the United States.

Symbols. A dash (-) represents zero or rounds to zero. The symbol "B" means that the base for the derived figure is less than 75,000. An "X" means not applicable, and "NA" means not available.

Rounding of estimates. Individual figures are rounded to the nearest thousand without being adjusted to group totals, which are independently rounded; percentages are based on the unrounded numbers.

Metropolitan-nonmetropolitan residence. The population residing in standard metropolitan statistical areas (SMSA's) constitutes the metropolitan population. Except in New England, an SMSA is a county or group of contiguous counties which contains at least one city of 50,000 inhabitants or more, or "twin cities" with a combined population of at least 50,000. In addition to the county, or counties, containing such a city, or cities, contiguous counties are included in an SMSA if, according to certain criteria, they are essentially metropolitan in character and are socially and economically integrated with the central county. In New England, SMSA's consist of towns and cities, rather than counties. The metropolitan population in this report is based on SMSA's as defined in the 1970 census and does not include any subsequent additions or changes.

Comparability of metropolitan and nonmetropolitan data from the March 1984 CPS with data for previous years. Changes in CPS design and procedures over the last several years have made the annual series of sample population data for metropolitan and nonmetropolitan areas inconsistent. Analytic comparisons of year-to-year changes in these figures should be avoided. Trends in metropolitan and nonmetropolitan population growth over the 1970-84 period should not be appreciably affected by the procedural changes.

Age. The age classification is based on the age of the person at the person's last birthday. The adult universe (i.e., population of marriageable age) is now comprised of persons 15 years old and over. Prior to 1980 the adult universe was 14 years old and over.

Race. The population is divided into three groups on the basis of race: White, Black, and other races. The last category includes Indians, Japanese, Chinese, and any other race except White and Black.

Persons of Spanish origin. Persons of Spanish origin in this report were determined on the basis of a question that asked for self-identification of the person's origin or descent. Respondents were asked to select their origin (or the origin of some other household member) from a "flash card" listing ethnic origins. Persons of Spanish origin, in particular, were those who indicated that their origin was Mexican, Puerto Rican, Cuban, Central or South American, or some other Spanish origin. Persons of Spanish origin may be of any race.

Marital status. The marital status classification identifies four major categories: single (never married), married, widowed, and divorced. These terms refer to the marital status at the time of the enumeration.

The category "married" is further divided into "married, spouse present," "separated," and "other married, spouse absent." A person was classified as "married, spouse present" if the husband or wife was reported as a member of the household, even though he or she may have been temporarily absent on business or on vacation, visiting, in a hospital, etc., at the time of the enumeration. Persons reported as separated included those with legal separations, those living apart with intentions of obtaining a divorce, and other persons permanently or temporarily separated because of marital discord. The group "other married, spouse absent" includes married persons living apart because either the husband or wife was employed and living at a considerable distance from home, was serving away from home in the Armed Forces, had moved to another area, or had a different place of residence for any other reason except separation as defined above.

Husband in Armed Forces. When a woman was reported as married but her husband was not enumerated as a member of the same household, an additional question was asked to determine whether her husband was in the Armed Forces. Women who were reported as separated were not asked the additional question.

Household. A household consists of all the persons who occupy a housing unit. A house, an apartment or other group of rooms, or a single room, is regarded as a housing unit when it is occupied or intended for occupancy as separate living quarters; that is, when the occupants do not live and eat with any other persons in the structure and there is direct access from the outside or through a common hall.

A household includes the related family members and all the unrelated persons, if any, such as lodgers, foster children, wards, or employees who share the housing unit. A person living alone in a housing unit, or a group of unrelated persons sharing a housing unit as partners, is also counted as a household. The count of households excludes group quarters.

Group quarters. As of 1983, group quarters were defined in the Current Population Survey as noninstitutional living arrangements for groups not living in conventional housing units or groups living in housing units containing ten or more unrelated persons or nine or more persons unrelated to the person in charge. Prior to 1983, group quarters included housing units containing five or more persons unrelated to the person in charge. Beginning in 1972, inmates of institutions have not been included in the Current Population Survey.

Householder. The householder refers to the person (or one of the persons) in whose name the housing unit is owned or rented (maintained) or, if there is no such person, any adult member, excluding roomers, boarders, or paid employees. If the house is owned or rented jointly by a married couple, the householder may be either the husband or the wife. The person designated as the householder is the "reference person" to whom the relationship of all other household members, if any, is recorded.

Prior to 1980, the husband was always considered the householder in married-couple households. The number of householders is equal to the number of households. Also, the number of family householders is equal to the number of families.

Head versus householder. Beginning with the 1980 CPS, the Bureau of the Census discontinued the use of the terms "head of household" and "head of family." Instead, the terms "householder" and "family householder" are used. Recent social changes have resulted in greater sharing of household responsibilities among the adult members and, therefore, have made the term "head" increasingly inappropriate in the analysis of household and family data. Specifically, the Bureau has discontinued its longtime practice of always classifying the husband as the reference person (head) when he and his wife are living together.

In this report, the term "householder" is used in the presentation of data that had previously been presented with the designation "head." The householder is the first adult household member listed on the questionnaire. The instructions call for listing first the person (or one of the persons) in whose name the home is owned or rented. If a home is owned jointly by a married couple, either the husband or the wife may be listed first, thereby becoming the reference person, or householder, to whom the relationship of other household members is to be recorded.

Family. A family is a group of two persons or more (one of whom is the householder) related by birth, marriage, or adoption and residing together; all such persons (including related subfamily members) are considered as members of one family. Beginning with the 1980 CPS, unrelated subfamilies (referred to in the past as secondary families) are no longer included in the count of families, nor are the members of unrelated subfamilies included in the count of family members.

Family household. A family household is a household maintained by a family (as defined above), and any unrelated persons (unrelated subfamily members and/or secondary individuals) who may be residing there are included. The number of family households is equal to the number of families. The count of family household members differs from the count of family members, however, in that the family household members include all persons living in the household, whereas family members include only the householder and his/her relatives. (See the definition of family.)

Related subfamily. A related subfamily is a married couple with or without children, or one parent with one or more own single (never married) children under 18 years old, living in a household and related to, but not including, the person or couple who maintains the household. The most common example of a related subfamily is a young married couple sharing the home of the husband's or wife's parents. The number of related subfamilies is not included in the count of families.

Unrelated subfamily. An unrelated subfamily (formerly called a secondary family) is a group of two persons or more who are related to each other by birth, marriage, or adoption, but who are not related to the householder. The unrelated subfamily may include persons such as guests, roomers, boarders, or resident employees and their relatives living in a household. The number of unrelated subfamily members is included in the number of household members but is not included in the count of family members.

Persons living with relatives in group quarters were formerly considered as members of unrelated subfamilies. However, the number of such unrelated subfamilies became so small (37,000 in 1967) that beginning with data for 1968 (and beginning with census data for 1960) the Bureau of the Census includes persons in these unrelated subfamilies in the count of secondary individuals.

Family group. A family group is any two or more persons (not necessarily including a householder) residing together, and related by birth, marriage, or adoption. A household may be comprised of one such group, more than one, or none at all. The count of family groups includes family households, related subfamilies, and unrelated subfamilies.

Married couple. A married couple, as defined for census purposes, is a husband and wife enumerated as members of the same household. The married couple may or may not have children living with them. The expression "husband-wife" or "married-couple" before the term "household," "family," or "subfamily" indicates that the household, family, or subfamily is maintained by a husband and wife. The number of married couples equals the count of married-couple families plus related and unrelated married-couple subfamilies.

Unmarried couple. An unmarried couple is composed of two unrelated adults of the opposite sex (one of whom is the householder) who share a housing unit with or without the presence of children under 15 years old.

Unrelated individuals. Unrelated individuals are persons of any age (other than inmates of institutions) who are not living with any relatives. An unrelated individual may be (1) a person living alone or with nonrelatives only, (2) a roomer, boarder, or resident employee with no relatives in the household, or (3) a group quarters member who has no relatives living with him/her. Thus, a widow who occupies her house alone or with one or more other persons not related to her, a roomer not related to anyone else in the housing unit, a maid living as a member of her employer's household with no relatives in the household, and a resident staff member in a hospital living apart from any relatives are all examples of unrelated individuals.

Nonfamily householder. A nonfamily householder (formerly called a primary individual) is a person maintaining a household while living alone or with nonrelatives only.

Secondary individual. A secondary individual is a person in a household or group quarters such a guest, roomer, boarder, or resident employee (excluding nonfamily householders and inmates of institutions) who is not related to any other person in the household or group quarters. (See section on unrelated subfamily for slight change in coverage of secondary individuals in 1968.)

Own children and related children. "Own" children in a family are sons and daughters, including stepchildren and adopted children, of the householder. Similarly, "own" children in a subfamily are sons and daughters of the married couple or parent in the subfamily. (All children shown as members of related subfamilies are own children of the person(s) maintaining the subfamily.) "Related" children in a family include own children and all other children in the household who are related to the householder by birth, marriage, or adoption. For each type of family unit identified in the CPS, the count of own children under 18 years old is limited to single (never married) children; however, "own children under 25" and "own children of any age," as the terms are used here, include all children regardless of marital status. The totals include never-married children living away from home in college dormitories.

The count of related children in families was formerly restricted to single (never married) children. However, beginning with data for 1968 the Bureau of the Census includes ever-married children under the category of related children. This change added approximately 20,000 children to the category of related children in March 1968.

Tenure. A housing unit is "owned" if the owner or co-owner lives in the unit, even if it is mortgaged or not fully paid for. A cooperative or condominium unit is "owned" only if the owner or co-owner lives in it. All other occupied units are classified as "rented," including units rented for cash rent and those occupied without payment of cash rent.

Years of school completed. Education of parent, as shown in this report, refers to the years of school completed by the parent (the father when both parents are present). Data on years of school completed were derived from the combination of answers to two questions, (a) "What is the highest grade of school that the person has attended?" and (b) "Did the person finish this grade?"

Labor force and employment status. The definitions of labor force and employment status in this report related to the population 15 years old and over.

Employed. Employed persons comprise (1) all civilians who, during the specified week, did any work at all as paid employees or in their own business or profession, or on their own farm, or who worked 15 hours or more as unpaid workers on a farm or in a business operated by a member of the family, and (2) all those who were not working but who had jobs or businesses from which they were temporarily absent because of illness, bad weather, vacation, or labor management dispute, or because they were taking time off for personal reasons, whether or not they were paid by their employers for time off, and whether or not they were seeking other jobs. Excluded from the employed group are persons whose only activity consisted of work around the house (own home housework, painting or repairing own home, etc.) or volunteer work for religious, charitable, and similar organizations.

Unemployed. Unemployed persons are those civilians who, during the survey week, had no employment but were available for work and (1) had engaged in any specific job-seeking activity within the past 4 weeks, such as registering at a public or private employment office, meeting with prospective employers, checking with friends or relatives, placing or answering advertisements, writing letters of application, or being on a union or professional register, (2) were waiting to be called back to a job from which they had been laid off; or (3) were waiting to report to a new wage or salary job within 30 days.

Labor force. Persons are classified as in the labor force if they were employed as civilians, unemployed, or in the Armed Forces during the survey week. The "civilian labor force" is comprised of all civilians classified as employed or unemployed.

Not in the labor force. All civilians who are not classified as employed or unemployed are defined as "not in the labor force." This group who are neither employed nor seeking work includes persons engaged only in own home housework, attending school, or unable to work because of long-term physical or mental illness; persons who are retired or too old to work, seasonal workers for whom the survey week fell in an off season, and the voluntary idle. Persons doing only unpaid family work (less than 15 hours) are also classified as not in the labor force.

Income. Data on income cover money income only, prior to deduction for taxes, received from such sources as wages or salaries, net income from self-employment, Social Security, dividends, interest, public assistance and welfare, unemployment compensation, government pensions, and veterans payments. Certain money receipts such as capital gains are not included. For a more detailed explanation, see Bureau of the Census, Current Population Reports, Series P-60.

Appendix B. Source and Reliability of Estimates

SOURCE OF DATA

Estimates in this report were primarily derived from the Current Population Survey. Additional data were obtained from the 1970 decennial census. The Current Population Survey and the decennial census are programs conducted by the Bureau of the Census. The 1970 decennial census data are noted on the text tables in the report.

Current Population Survey (CPS). The monthly CPS deals mainly with labor force data for the civilian noninstitutional population. Questions relating to labor force participation are asked in every sample household. In addition, supplementary questions are asked every March about household and family characteristics. Most of the CPS estimates in this report are based on data obtained in March 1984. Some estimates are based on data obtained in March for earlier years. In order to obtain more reliable data for the Spanish-origin population, the March CPS sample was enlarged to include all households from the previous November sample which contained at least one sample person of Spanish origin. For this report, persons in the Armed Forces living off post or with their families on post are included.

The present CPS sample was initially selected from the 1970 census files with coverage in all 50 States and the District of Columbia. The sample is continually updated to reflect new construction. The current CPS sample is located in 629 areas comprising 1,148 counties, independent cities, and minor civil divisions in the Nation. In March 1984, approximately 61,500 occupied households were eligible for interview.¹ Of this number, about 2,500 occupied units were visited but interviews were not obtained because the occupants were not found at home after repeated calls or were unavailable from some other reason.

The following table provides a description of some aspects of the CPS sample designs in use during the referenced data collection periods.²

The estimation procedure used for the monthly CPS data involved the inflation of weighted sample results to independent estimates of the total civilian noninstitutional population of the United States by age, race, and sex. These independent estimates are based on statistics from decennial censuses; statistics on births, deaths, immigration, and emigration; and statistics on the strength of the Armed Forces. The independent population estimates used in this report to obtain data for March 1980 and later years are based on the 1980 decennial census. Data for 1970 were obtained using independent population estimates based on the 1970 decennial census. The estimation procedure for the data also involved a further adjustment so that husband and wife of a household receive the same weight.

Decennial Census of Population. Decennial census data in this report are based on the complete count or on the sample associated with the census. The 1970 census data are from special tabulations developed from the 5-percent sample associated with the 1970 Census of Population. Descriptions of the sample from the census are found in the appropriate census publications.

RELIABILITY OF ESTIMATES

Since the CPS estimates were based on a sample, they may differ somewhat from the figures that would have been obtained if a complete census had been taken using the same questionnaires, instructions, and enumerators. There are two types of errors possible in an estimate based on a sample survey—sampling and nonsampling. The standard errors provided for this report primarily indicate the magnitude of the sampling errors. They also partially measure the effect of some nonsampling errors in response and enumeration; but do not measure any systematic biases in the data. Bias is the difference, averaged over all possible samples, between the estimate and the desired value. Obviously, the accuracy of a survey result depends on the sampling and nonsampling errors measured by the standard error and on the bias and other types of nonsampling error not measured by the standard error. Consequently, particular care should be exercised in the interpretation of figures based on a relatively small number of cases or on small differences between estimates.

Nonsampling variability. As in any survey work, the results are subject to errors of response and nonreporting in addition to sampling variability. Nonsampling errors can be attributed to many sources, e.g., inability to obtain information about all cases in the sample, definitional difficulties, differences in the interpretation of questions, inability or unwillingness on the part of respondents to provide correct information, inability to recall information, errors made in collection such as in recording or coding the data, errors made in processing the data, errors made in estimating values for missing data, and failure to represent all units with the sample (undercoverage).

Undercoverage in the CPS results from missed housing units and missed persons within sample households. Overall undercoverage, as compared to the level of the 1980 decennial census, is about 7 percent. It is known that CPS undercoverage varies with age, sex, and race. Generally, undercoverage is larger for males than for females and larger for Blacks and other races combined than for Whites. Ratio estimation to independent age-sex-race population controls, as described previously, partially corrects for the bias due to survey undercoverage. However, biases exist in the estimates to the extent that missed persons in missed households or missed persons in interviewed households have different characteristics than interviewed persons in the same age-sex-race group. Further, the independent population controls used have not been adjusted for undercoverage in the 1980 Census.

For additional information on nonsampling error including the possible impact on CPS data when known, refer to Statistical Policy Working Paper No. 3, An Error Profile: Employment as Measured by the Current Population Survey, Office of Federal Statistical Policy and Standards, U.S. Department of Commerce, 1978 and Technical Paper 40, The Current Population Survey: Design and Methodology, Bureau of the Census, U.S. Department of Commerce.

Sampling variability. The standard errors given in the following tables are primarily measures of sampling variability, that is, of the variations that occurred by chance because a sample rather than the entire population was surveyed. The sample estimate and its standard error enable one to construct confidence intervals, ranges that would include the average result of all possible samples with a known probability. For example, if all possible samples were selected, each of these being surveyed under essentially the same general conditions and using the same sample design, and if an estimate and its standard error were calculated from each sample, then:

1. Approximately 68 percent of the intervals from one standard error below the estimate to one standard error above the estimate would include the average result of all possible samples.
2. Approximately 90 percent of the intervals from 1.6 standard errors below the estimate to 1.6 standard errors above the estimate would include the average result of all possible samples.
3. Approximately 95 percent of the intervals from two standard errors below the estimate to two standard errors above the estimate would include the average result of all possible samples.

The average estimate derived from all possible samples is or is not contained in any particular computed interval. However, for a particular sample, one can say with a specified confidence that the average estimate derived from all possible samples is included in the confidence interval.

Standard errors may also be used to perform hypothesis testing, a procedure for distinguishing between population parameters using sample estimates. The most common types of hypotheses appearing in this report are 1) the population parameters are identical or 2) they are different. An example of this would be comparing the divorce ratio of women versus the divorce ratio of men. Tests may be performed at various levels of significance, where a level of significance is the probability of concluding that the parameters are different when, in fact, they are identical.

To perform the most common test, let x and y be sample estimates for two characteristics of interest. A subsequent section explains how to derive a standard error on the difference $x-y$. Let that standard error be σ_{DIFF} . Compute the ratio $R = (x-y)/\sigma_{\text{DIFF}}$. If this ratio is between -2 and +2, no conclusion about the parameters is justified at the 0.05 level of significance. If, on the other hand, this ratio is smaller than -2 or larger than +2, the observed difference is significant at the 0.05 level. In this event, it is commonly accepted practice to say that the parameters are different. Of course, sometimes this conclusion will be wrong. When the parameters are, in fact, the same, there is a 5-percent chance of concluding that they are different.

All statements of comparison in the text have passed a hypothesis test at the 0.10 level of significance or better, and most have passed a hypothesis test at the 0.05 level of significance or better. This means that, for most differences cited in the text, the estimated difference between parameters is greater than twice the standard error of the difference. For the other differences mentioned, the estimated difference between parameters is between 1.6 and 2.0 times the standard error of the difference. When this is the case, the statement of comparison will be qualified in some way; e.g., by the use of the phrase "some evidence."

Comparability of data. In using metropolitan and nonmetropolitan data, caution should be used in comparing estimates for 1977 and 1978 to each other or to any other years. Methodological and sample design changes occurred in these years resulting in relatively large differences in the metropolitan and nonmetropolitan area estimates. However, estimates for 1979 and later are comparable as are estimates for 1976 and earlier.

Caution should also be used when comparing estimates for 1980 and later, which reflect 1980 census-based population controls, to those for 1970 through 1979, which reflect 1970 census-based population controls. This change in population controls had relatively little impact on summary measures such as means, medians, and percent distribution, but did have a significant impact on levels. For example, use of 1980-based population controls resulted in about a 2-percent increase in the civilian noninstitutional population and in the number of families and households. Thus, estimates of levels for 1980 and later will differ from those for earlier years by more than what could be attributed to actual changes in the population and these differences could be disproportionately greater for certain subpopulation groups than for the total population.

Note when using small estimates. Caution should be used when summary measures (such as means and percent distributions) are computed on a base less than 75,000. Because of the large standard errors involved, there is little chance that summary measures would reveal useful information when computed on a smaller base. Estimated numbers are shown, however, even though the relative standard errors of these numbers are larger than those for corresponding percentages. These smaller estimates are provided primarily to permit such combinations of the categories as serve each user's needs. Also care must be taken in the interpretation of small differences. For instance, even a small amount of nonsampling error can cause a borderline difference to appear significant or not, thus distorting a seemingly valid hypothesis test.

Standard errors for data based on the decennial census. Sampling errors of all data from the sample of the decennial censuses shown in this report are small enough to be disregarded.

Standard error tables and their use. In order to derive standard errors that would be applicable to a large number of estimates and could be prepared at a moderate cost, a number of approximations were required. Therefore, instead of providing an individual standard error for each estimate, generalized sets of standard errors are provided for various types of characteristics. As a result, the sets of standard errors provided give an indication of the order of magnitude of the standard error of an estimate rather than the precise standard error.

Standard errors for data based on the CPS sample. The figures presented in tables B-1 through B-4 are approximations to standard errors of various estimates shown in this report. Estimated standard errors for specific characteristics cannot be obtained from tables B-1 through B-4 without the use of the factors in table B-5. These factors must be applied to the generalized standard errors in order to adjust for the combined effect of sample design and estimating procedure on the value of the characteristic. Standard errors for intermediate values not shown in the generalized tables of standard errors may be approximated by linear interpolation.

Note: For a particular characteristic, see table B-5 for the appropriate factor to apply to the above standard errors. For reference, the standard errors in tables B-1 and B-3 were calculated using $a = -0.000025$ and $b = 4480$.

¹For estimates larger than 100,000,000, multiply the estimate by 0.004 to get the standard error. Use of formula (2) and the parameters in table B-6 will give more accurate results.

Two parameters (denoted "a" and "b") are used to calculate standard errors for each type of characteristic; they are presented in table B-6. These parameters were used to calculate the standard errors in tables B-1 through B-4 and to calculate the factors in table B-5. They also may be used to calculate directly the standard errors for estimated numbers and percentages. Direct computation of the standard errors will give more accurate results than the use of the standard error tables. Methods for direct computation are given in the following sections.

Standard errors of estimated numbers. The approximate standard error, σ_x , of an estimated number shown in this report can be obtained in two ways. It may be obtained by use of the formula

$$\sigma_x = f\sigma \quad (1)$$

Note: For a particular characteristic, see table B-5 for the appropriate factor to apply to the above standard errors. For reference, the standard errors in tables B-2 and B-4 were calculated using $a = -0.000265$ and $b = 6426$.

where f is the appropriate factor from table B-5, and σ is the standard error on the estimate obtained by interpolation from table B-1 or B-2. Alternatively, standard errors may be approximated by using formula (2), from which the standard errors were calculated in tables B-1 and B-2. Use of this formula will provide more accurate results than the use of formula (1) above.

$$\sigma_x = \sqrt{ax^2 + bx} \quad (2)$$

Here x is the size of the estimate and a and b are the parameters in table B-6 associated with the particular type of characteristic. When calculating standard errors for numbers from cross-tabulations involving different characteristics, use the factor or set of parameters for the characteristic which will give the largest standard error.

Illustration of the computation of the standard error of an estimated number. Table G of this report shows that there were 1,988,000 unmarried-couple households as of March 1984. Using formula (2) and the parameters $a = -0.000010$ and $b = 1778$ from table B-6, the estimate of the standard error is

$$\sigma_x = \sqrt{(-0.000010)(1,988,000)^2 + (1778)(1,988,000)} = 59,000^3$$

The 68-percent confidence interval for the number of unmarried-couple households is from 1,929,000 to 2,047,000. The 95-percent confidence interval is from 1,870,000 to 2,106,000 (using twice the standard error). Therefore, a conclusion that the average estimate derived from all possible samples lies within a range computed in this way would be correct for roughly 95 percent of all possible samples.

Standard errors of estimated percentages. The reliability of an estimated percentage, computed using sample data for both numerator and denominator, depends on both the size of the percentage and the size of the total upon which this percentage is based. Estimated percentages are relatively more reliable than the corresponding estimates of the numerators of the percentages, particularly if the percentages are 50 percent or more. When the numerator and denominator of the percentage are in different categories, use the factor or parameters indicated by the numerator. The approximate standard error, $\sigma_{(x,p)}$ of an estimated percentage can be obtained by use of the formula

$$\sigma_{(x,p)} = f\sigma \quad (3)$$

In this formula, f is the appropriate factor from table B-5 and σ is the standard error of the estimate from either table B-3 or B-4. Alternatively, standard errors may be approximated by formula (4), from which the standard errors in tables B-3 and B-4 were calculated.

³Using formula (1), the appropriate factor (0.6) from table B-5, and interpolation from table B-1, the approximate standard error is $0.6 \times 92,000 = 55,000$.

Note: For a particular characteristic, see table B-5 for the appropriate factor to apply to the above standard errors.

$$\sigma_{(x,p)} = \sqrt{\frac{b}{x} (p) (100-p)} \quad (4)$$

Here x is the size of the subclass of persons or families and unrelated individuals which is the base of the percentage, p is the percentage ($0 < p < 100$), and b is the parameter in table B-6 associated with the particular type of characteristic in the numerator of the percentage. Use of this formula will provide more accurate results than the use of formula (3) above.

Illustration of the computation of the standard error of an estimated percentage. Table G of this report shows that of the 1,988,000 unmarried-couple households, 1,373,000 or 69.1 percent have no children present. From table B-6 the approximate parameter b is 1778. Using formula (4), the approximate standard error of 69.1 percent is

$$\sigma_{(x,p)} = \sqrt{\frac{1778}{1,988,000} (69.1) (100-69.1)} \approx 1.4 \text{ percent}^4$$

This means that the 68-percent confidence interval for the percentage of unmarried-couple households with no children present is from 67.7 to 70.5 percent, and the 95-percent confidence interval is from 66.3 to 71.9 percent, i.e., $69.1 \pm (2 \times 1.4)$.

Standard errors of estimates of divorced persons per 1,000 married persons with spouse present. The standard error of an estimate of the number of divorced persons per 1,000 married persons with spouse present cannot be calculated directly from the standard error tables. The estimate involves the ratio of the total persons divorced, x , to the total number of married persons with spouse present, y , multiplied by 1,000. The standard error of this estimate is calculated by the following formula:

*Using formula (3), the appropriate factor from table B-5 (0.6), and table B-3, the approximate standard error is $0.6 \times 2.3 = 1.4$ percent.

The standard errors of the estimates of the total number of divorced persons, σ_x , and the standard error of the total number of married persons with spouse present, σ_y , should both be calculated using table B-1 or B-2 and factor from table B-5 or formula (2).

Illustration of the computation of the standard error of estimated divorced persons per 1,000 married persons with spouse present. In 1984, the number of White divorced persons, x , was 10,428,000 and the number of White married persons with spouse present, y , was 92,226,000. This means that the ratio of White divorced persons to married persons who were living with their spouse was 113 per 1,000. The standard error of this estimate is calculated by using formula (5) and the following steps:

1. Compute σ_x and σ_y using formula (2).

$$\sigma_x = \sqrt{(-0.000025)(10,428,000)^2 + (4480)(10,428,000)} \approx 210,000$$

$$\sigma_y = \sqrt{(-0.000025)(92,226,000)^2 + (4480)(92,226,000)} \approx 448,000$$

2. Compute $\frac{\sigma_x^2}{x^2} = 0.000405$

3. Compute $\frac{\sigma_y^2}{y^2} = 0.000024$

4. Using formula (5), the estimate of the standard error is

This means that the 68-percent confidence interval for the ratio of divorced White persons to married White persons with spouse present is from 111 to 115 per 1,000, and the 95-percent confidence interval is from 108 to 118 per 1,000.

Standard error of a difference. For a difference between two sample estimates, the standard error is approximately equal to where σ_x and σ_y are the standard errors of the estimates x and y (from tables B-1 through B-4). The estimates can be numbers, percents, ratios, etc. This will represent the actual standard errors quite accurately for the difference between two estimates of the same characteristic in two different areas, or for the difference between separate and uncorrelated characteristics in the same area. If, however, there is a high positive (negative) correlation between the two characteristics, the formula will overestimate (underestimate) the true standard error.

Illustration of the computation of the standard error of a difference. Table G shows that in 1984 there were 614,000 unmarried-couple households with children present under 15 years and in 1980 there were 431,000. The apparent difference between 1978 and 1984 unmarried-couple households with children present under 15 years is 183,000. Using formula (2) and the appropriate parameters from table B-6, the approximate standard errors of these two estimates are 33,000 and 28,000, respectively.⁵ Therefore, from formula

⁵ $\sqrt{(-0.000010)(614,000)^2 + (1778)(614,000)} = 33,000$ and $\sqrt{(-0.000010)(431,000)^2 + (1778)(431,000)} = 28,000$

(6) the approximate standard error of the estimated difference of 183,000 households is

$$\sigma_{(x-y)} = \sqrt{(33,000)^2 + (28,000)^2} \approx 43,000$$

This means that the 68-percent confidence interval for the true difference between unmarried-couple households with children present under 15 years in 1984 and in 1980 is from 140,000 to 226,000. The 95-percent confidence interval on the difference is 97,000 to 269,000. Therefore, a conclusion that the average estimate of the difference derived from all possible samples lies within a range computed in this way would be correct for roughly 95 percent of all possible samples. Since this interval does not contain zero, we can conclude with 95-percent confidence that the number of unmarried-couple households with children present under 15 is greater in 1984 than 1980.
