County Equivalents

BFS publishes county data for Louisiana (parishes) and Alaska (organized boroughs, city and boroughs, municipalities, and census areas) as the equivalent of a county. The independent cities in Virginia, and the cities of Baltimore, MD; Carson City, NV; and St. Louis, MO, are treated as separate counties.

The Census Bureau adopted the State’s nine Councils of Governments (which are designated under Section 16a-4a(4) of the Connecticut General Statutes) as the county-equivalent geographic unit for purposes of collecting, tabulating, and disseminating statistical data in 2022. The city- and town-based Councils of Governments (COGs) also serve as Planning Regions.

Geographic Boundary Changes

The Census Bureau’s reference date for geographic entity boundaries in all geographic and statistical data products is January 1 of the reference year (e.g., January 1, 2023). Boundary changes with effective dates after January 1 will appear in geographic and statistical data products referenced to the following year. For example, a change with an effective date of January 2, 2023 will appear in products referenced to 2024.
